HAKKASAN DIM SUM LUNCH

There aren't many places to have dim sum in Miami, and there is only one that serves up a vast array of made-to-order, piping-hot dumplings in a manner and ambiance that can only be described as "Haute Chinese." Hakkasan at Fontainebleau has a new weekend lunch that features a variety of delicately prepared dumplings, including the elusive soup dumpling that releases hot broth and pork with the first bite. Also on the menu: stir-fried hand-pulled noodles, thick and hearty congees and barbecue dishes and platters that feature delicately prepared duck and pork with perfectly crispy skins. The lunch is served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays, making it the perfect alternative for a leisurely brunch in the most physically striking and darkly romantic restaurant in the city.

WHAT'S NEW

FUTURICITY STYLES FROM VIDAL SASSOON

Vidal Sassoon specializes in more than just the angular bobs they are famous for. Their precision-cutting techniques work wonders and can be applied to all types of hair, making wavy or curly hair look just right, even when it's dried au naturale. But this kind of know-how doesn't come easy. Even the most seasoned stylists receive additional training to learn the proprietary techniques, which have their basis in geometry, at the Vidal Sassoon Academy.

This season, and every season, Vidal Sassoon introduces a handful of brand-new haircuts. After all, the fashionable set doesn't use clothes that are seasons old — why should haircuts be any different? Spring 2010 brings the Futuricity collection featuring a new orbital technique especially designed to give hair great movement. After all, "if you don't look good, [they] don't look good."
