

944's choice Tuccia Di Capri

Nobody knows more about shoes than women, and nobody gets to see more beautiful shoes than models. So it's only fitting that two former models have opened a sandal boutique off Lincoln Road that specializes in the Italian-style genre. Tuccia Di Capri was conceived by Tove Nord and Terri Coleman, both of whom have become cobblers under the tutelage of Vincenzo Faiella, one of the last master shoe makers on the island of Capri. A dizzying array of styles and colors are available and custom made to order. In about a half hour a hapless shopper can get a personalized taste of Jackie O chic in the material of their choosing. Given the taste of the meticulous owners, the shop is almost as cute as the sandals. Evoking the type of shopping experience you might have in, say, St. Tropez, the stylish salon is the kind of place you might just sit back and have a Bellini and soak up what these two fashionistas are serving.

+ Writing | Hadley Henriette
+ Photography | Heather Talbert

1630 Pennsylvania Avenue, Miami Beach | 305.534.5865 | www.tucciadicapri.com